¹ Due to a clerical error, Jones Lang LaSalle Americas, Inc. received payment, on January 2, 2006 of the full amount of all fees assessed during December 2005, without the intended 20% holdback. In order to correct this error, $10,565.55, representing 20% of the fees assessed and paid for December 2005 was subtracted from the amount otherwise payable as monthly interim compensation on account of services rendered during November 2005, when that compensation paid on February 2, 2006.

² Due to a clerical error, this amount constituted an overpayment in the amount of $1,808.33. JLL accounted for this overpayment in its first interim application for compensation seeking allowance and payment of all compensation, including the amount held back each month for professional services rendered through January 2006.

During the Statement Period, JLL incurred expenses totaling $295.37 connection with the professional services rendered by Monica Lee for local transportation and telephone charges related to pending and potential real estate transactions.
